

SEALANT CONSENT

Sealants can help prevent cavities from penetrating the hard to reach grooves on our teeth. They are being recommended as a preventative service at your child's visit today. Dental sealants are plastic coatings that are placed on the chewing (occlusal) surface of the permanent back teeth — the molars and premolars — to help protect them from decay.

We recommend that sealants are placed when the biting surface of a tooth is healthy, un-restored & visible above the gum line. This is generally considered a preventative treatment by numerous insurance companies; however some may not cover it. If they are denied by your insurance company, the patient (or responsible party) will be responsible for the amount not covered by insurance.
